What is 95 Phonics Booster Bundle™: Summer School Edition

The 95 Phonics Booster Bundle™ is a 25-day summer school phonics program for rising 1st through 3rd graders taught either whole class or small group to address gaps in foundational skills. It can be taught either face-to-face or remotely. The program provides teachers an all-inclusive summer school phonics and word study program to catch students up who have deficits due to unfinished learning due to various circumstances. For overextended teachers who need to focus on this Spring's instruction, this program takes care of all the planning because the Teacher's Package and Student Workbook Package provide everything needed including engaging individual student phonics manipulatives and decodable texts. No lesson planning is needed, and teachers don't have to pull materials to create instruction for the summer weeks. This self-contained program can assist in attracting teachers, who otherwise might be ready to take a break this summer, to consider teaching a session this summer.

This program provides targeted research-based structured literacy instruction that is explicit, systematic, sequential, and cumulative; it is not designed to include all the other Tier 1 ELA components such as read-alouds, oral language and vocabulary development, authentic text, comprehension instruction, and process writing. These components can be covered in a second time block using existing curriculum materials.

This program's 25 days of lessons are designed to be taught for 30-45 minutes daily during summer school. It offers flexibility to teach in fewer than 25 days by skipping the beginning or ending lessons, based on the skills that can be skipped and those that your students most urgently need.

This program is consistent with a core value of 95 Percent Group, which is that reading instruction should be teacher directed. Although digital tools are included to support remote teaching, this program is grounded in the belief that the teacher—not a computer—teaches students how to read.

Rationale for Developing the 95 Phonics Booster Bundle™: Summer School Edition

95 Percent Group developed a Summer School program because schools continue to face unprecedented challenges with closing the gaps left behind by the COVID pandemic. This program was developed specifically for summerschool to target the most urgent need for K-3 struggling students, which is phonics.

95 Percent Group is a leader in phonics materials that provide teachers lessons that are explicit, systematic, and sequential to be used in intervention and in a core strand. Releasing a summer school program, including the routines and strategies that make our other programs successful, will provide the instruction schools need to continue the momentum in filling the gaps but also prevent summer slide.

Based on client input, this program addresses the following concerns and needs:

- Alarm about the substantial phonics and word reading skill gaps of K-2 students resulting from school closures, remote instruction, and excessive absences during the pandemic
- Concern about not only the unparalleled number of students with gaps, but the potential that these gaps will persist across their future academic years if unaddressed
- Lack of time and resources to develop intense summer school phonics lessons
- Concern about attracting teachers to teach summer school by offering a program that requires almost no teacher preparation and limited teacher training because it is planned, ready to go, and includes all materials
- Need for a consistent curriculum that ensures students receiving instruction remotely will receive the exact same curriculum as those in a classroom through included digital components

Using the deep phonics expertise of our team, as well as leveraging instructional strategies found in our existing phonics intervention products and Tier 1 phonics strand, this summer school program was designed and written entirely by our educator employees. A hallmark of the curriculum is that it provides explicit routines in each of the important components of phonics instruction, including letter- sound correspondence, word sorting, sound-spelling mapping with and without phonics chips, word chains, sentence dictation, and application in decodable texts. This program aligns with all of 95 Percent Group's phonics assessments and programs so students will have consistent gestures, chip colors, and routines between summer school and our Tier 1 phonics strand and intervention materials.

Additionally, this program was designed to ensure that students whose parents elect a remote option for summer school will receive the same curriculum as those learning in the classroom. This curriculum can be taught remotely with the Digital Presentation files when teachers instruct students on videoconferencing platforms and each child has a workbook and individual manipulatives in hand.

During instruction students use a series of 7 strips that have either 3 or 4 letters with a keyword that helps elicit the sound(s) associated with the consonant and vowel letters. Each strip is colorful and contains the keyword image. Two of the 7 strips are shown below.

Rising 2nd

During the lessons, students move colored chips into sound boxes to represent words the teacher dictates; after mapping the sounds in a word, students write the letters in the appropriate sound boxes in the Student Workbook. Each student workbook includes a sheet to remove from the center page where the staples hold the book's pages together; this sheet is 2 pages in length and printed in color on a more durable type of paper. When pulled out, the center sheet includes a 5-box Sound-Spelling Mat on 1 page, and a set of colored chips printed on the other page. Teachers will need to cut the 15-20 round circle chips out before summer school starts and place them in a re-sealable snack or sandwich bag (bags are not included). By providing manipulatives, each student has his/her own individual materials to reduce concern about virus transmission since materials are not shared between students.
